CATC constructs new lodge on Fox Island

Accommodations expand with replacement of former building

CIRI Alaska Tourism Corp. (CATC) is developing a new overnight lodge building to replace the old Kenai Fjords Wilderness Lodge on Fox Island. The new building is being constructed by Harmon Construction of Seward in preparation for guests arriving in late spring 2013. It will be approximately 3,100-square feet and will include an expansive kitchen to accommodate the new culinary program, which will include a full menu prepared and served on-site.

In addition to the new overnight lodge building, all of the waterfront cabins at Kenai Fjords Wilderness Lodge have been refurbished with new beds, furniture, carpet, drapes and granite countertops.

As an added amenity, the book written by Rockwell Kent titled "Wilderness" may be found in the lodge reading room and in each waterfront cabin. Kent was an artist from New York who spent a winter on Fox Island in 1918 and wrote the book about his stay there.

To complement the expanded accommodations and renovations, guests will enjoy exceptional service from the lodge staff including coffee and tea delivered to their cabins each morning. Guests may also choose from an array of Kenai Fjords Wilderness Lodge activities such as naturalist-led walks on the beach, guided walks with a national park ranger, kayaking, a guided trail hike for experienced hikers and a campfire on the beach in the evenings. All meals and appetizers are included with each guest stay that also begins and concludes with a Kenai Fjords Tours cruise.

A word from the president

Passing the baton

By: Margie Brown, CIRI president and chief executive officer

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

In just a few days, the baton will pass from me to Sophie Minich – as I retire from CIRI and Sophie becomes CIRI's President and CEO. The official passing of the baton follows six months of smooth transition as we make plans for the changes that will occur at CIRI. Change itself can be unsettling, but the CIRI Board, Sophie and I have all worked to assure CIRI's stakeholders that this change is a natural progression and is part of a seamless transition.

Being in transition mode has not slowed down the business happening at CIRI.

The year of 2012 was one of the most productive years that I have experienced in my long career at CIRI. This year's accomplishments include acquisition of Cruz Energy Services, Cruz Marine and Weldin Construction, fine additions to the CIRI family of companies.

In the energy sector, we now hold interests in fully-contracted wind farms in the Lower 48 states through our Capistrano partnership and our investment in Palouse Wind in Central Washington. Closer to home, we completed the first phase of CIRI Energy's Fire Island Wind development. Our commitment to our renewable energy portfolio represents roughly 20 percent of the company's assets, a comfortable proportion of our overall business portfolio.

We made strides in advancing our traditional oil and gas interests and we look forward to more exploration on CIRI land and more production from leases held by NordAq, Apache and Hilcorp - all new explorers in the Cook Inlet oil and gas basin.

We made good progress in our real estate developments in 2012, with construction at Tikahtnu Commons so brisk that when the newly constructed shops are open in 2013, Tikahtnu will be nearly complete. Our Texas residential developments are moving again and the Hyatt Lost Pines Resort has now reached stabilization.

As the year winds down, I have braced myself for the range of emotions that I know I will experience as I leave the company. Working at CIRI has been a big part of my adult life. In fact, I feel as if I have grown up here in the offices of CIRI. The work continues to inspire me, the people of CIRI inspire me and I will greatly miss both the work and the people. I will remain forever grateful for the opportunity CIRI has provided me: to learn, lead and advance the mission of CIRI as it strives to serve its shareholders well.

As the leadership baton is passed at CIRI, I want you to know that Sophie has my full support. I am confident that her progression through the ranks of CIRI during her nearly 20 years with the company has prepared her for this next role. She will have the benefit of a well-functioning board of directors to guide her and a talented executive team to assist her in leading the company. She will have the accomplished staff of CIRI and of our partners to help her. And she will have the shareholders of our great company, CIRI, to support her - just as you have supported me.

It has been my privilege and honor to serve as CIRI's President and CEO for the past eight years. Thank you for your support and kindness.

Margie Brown

By: Sophie Minich, CIRI chief operating officer

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

Nearly 20 years ago I walked off the elevator and into the CIRI offices to begin what has been an incredible journey. For me, from that moment it has been about the people at CIRI. The employees I work with, the leaders I have worked for and the shareholders I work on behalf of have made this journey incredibly rewarding, inspiring, challenging and engaging. I am proud to be a CIRI shareholder and I am honored to have been selected by the CIRI Board of Directors to continue this journey as CIRI's next President and Chief Executive Officer.

As the next phase of my journey begins, I extend my sincere appreciation to the past leaders of CIRI for their wisdom and dedication. Each in his or her own way has immensely contributed to CIRI's 40 years of success and has helped to shape our company into what it is today. To Margie, I would like to say it has been a true honor to work for you and beside you. Your leadership, unwavering support and belief in your executive team will resonate with each of us for years to come. Your passion for CIRI, its mission and your fellow shareholders has been instilled in each of us and we will carry that passion with us into the future.

To my fellow CIRI shareholders, I look forward to seeing you and visiting with you at future CIRI events. Your friendship, kindness and respect over the years is appreciated and I will work hard to continue to earn your support. I wish you and your families a New Year full of many blessings.

CIRI Spotlight: Kristen Guinn

Volunteer bird caregiver,
CIRI benefits specialist

Concern for the health and well-being of living creatures is a top priority for Kristen Guinn, one that she is dedicated to promoting personally and professionally.

Guinn currently serves as CIRI's employee benefits specialist and since 2001, she has volunteered with the Anchorage Bird Treatment and Learning Center while working full-time in the human resources, benefits and payroll fields.

What began as a road trip with a friend to Haines in 2000 to see the largest annual gathering of bald eagles in the world turned into serving as a full-time caretaker of a great grey owl named Gandalf by 2002.

During the trip to Haines, Guinn learned about the Anchorage Bird Treatment and Learning Center (Bird TLC), a nonprofit organization that rehabilitates sick, injured and orphaned wild birds. In 2006, she took in another wild bird, a bald eagle named Sparkie. Guinn buys most of their food herself to ensure that the birds are properly cared for. The remainder is provided by Bird TLC donations.

As part of the foster agreement with Bird TLC, Guinn shows Sparkie and Gandalf at least a dozen times a year, taking them to the Campbell Creek Science Center to meet with school groups, Girl and Boy Scout troops and tourist groups. During these visits, she educates attendees about the different species, their backgrounds, nutritional needs and natural habitats. Guinn has traveled with these birds throughout the state, from King Salmon to the North Slope and many places between.

Guinn is from Bethel and is Yup'ik and Athabascan. She is the descendant of the late Elizabeth "Cookie" Rose and Charles "Stuffer" Guinn. After watching her relatives struggle through the health-care maze, Kristen Guinn became devoted to helping others navigate their way through the system. Now, with more than 20 years of experience in human resources, benefits and payroll, she joined the CIRI team in October. Guinn, who also served as the insurance analyst for the Municipality of Anchorage, joined CIRI to help increase awareness among CIRI employees about the wide range of resources available to them.

CIRI welcomes Kirsten Guinn to the team. As a member of the Alaska community, CIRI encourages its officers, directors and employees to share their time and expertise with charitable organizations through volunteerism, personal giving and sharing.

CIRI Nominating Committee seeks applicants for the 2013 Board slate

The CIRI Nominating Committee seeks CIRI shareholders interested in being considered for nomination for the 2013 CIRI Board of Directors' candidate slate. To be considered for nomination, all Board slate applicants, including incumbents, must complete and return a candidate nominee application to CIRI by Jan. 21, 2013, 5 p.m., AST. Additional information can be found online at www.ciri.com or by contacting CIRI's Shareholder Relations Department.

The Nominating Committee will review all timely applications, conduct selected interviews and recommend candidates to CIRI's Board of Directors. Based upon the Nominating Committee's recommendations and the Board's own independent review, the CIRI Board will name five candidates to the Board-recommended slate.

Director responsibilities

CIRI directors are responsible for initiating and developing the policies that further the goals of the Company, while addressing the economic, social and cultural needs of the shareholders. All applicants should be well-rounded and possess a strong business understanding. Each candidate must be at least 18 years of age and a voting CIRI shareholder. The Nominating Committee looks for demonstrated decision-making, leadership and communication skills, as well as honesty and integrity. Knowledge of business operations, involvement with Native issues and a college degree or equivalent business experience are also desired.

2012 CIRI shareholder tax information

After Dec. 31, 2012, CIRI's Accounting and Finance Department will be able to determine the proper treatment of the various types of distributions CIRI made to shareholders in 2012 with respect to IRS 1099 Form reporting requirements. As soon as the proper treatment is determined, the dividend hotline and CIRI website will be updated. An article about how CIRI distributions will be reported to the IRS will also appear in a future issue of Raven's Circle. CIRI's IRS Forms 1099 will be mailed to shareholders no later than Jan. 31, 2013, as required by law.

2013 Dividend payments

CIRI's dividend policy states that the total CIRI dividend payment to shareholders in any given year is equal to 3.5 percent of total shareholders' equity, calculated as of Dec. 31 of the prior year. The CIRI Board is expected to set the dates of record for 2013 shareholder distributions in late February. Dividend amounts will be calculated shortly before the date of record for the 2013 first quarter dividend distribution, which generally falls within the last two weeks of March.

As the first step in the process, the Company's 2012 accounting books must be "closed" (i.e., all 2012 expenses and income must be received and either paid or properly accounted for). Next, the Accounting and Finance Department prepares CIRI's 2012 financial statements, after which an independent accounting firm is retained by CIRI to review its financial statements and confirm their accuracy. This process will determine CIRI's total shareholders' equity upon which the 2013 dividends will be based.

When the Board declares a dividend, shareholders will be notified via the newsletter, CIRI's website and the dividend hotline, which can be accessed by dialing (907) 263-5100 in Anchorage or toll-free outside of Anchorage by dialing (800) 764-2435 (CHEK). Once calculated, a table containing the dates and amounts for each type of payment CIRI expects to issue to shareholders in 2013 will be posted on CIRI's website. Information on CIRI's dividend policy may also be found online at www.ciri.com.

Help locate shareholder addresses

The following CIRI shareholders do not have a current mailing address on record and should fill out the change of address form at CIRI's offices, download it from the CIRI website or send a signed and dated letter that includes the new address, telephone number, birth date and the last four digits of their social security number.

2012 Stock will prize winners

The winner of the November 2012 Stock Will Participation Prize was Leroy Blaine Hoeldt. As announced in September, in addition to the monthly drawing, shareholders with a valid will on file on Nov. 12, 2012 were eligible for four additional special cash prize drawings. The special prize winners are as follows:

- $500 to Vickie Lee Olson
- $200 to Carol Marie Pedro
- $200 to Jordon Healy Koutchak
- $200 to Bradley S. Baxter

Congratulations to our prize winners!

Stock will prize drawing eligibility update

Because share fractions create a disproportionate increase in administrative costs and burden, CIRI's Board of Directors established a policy, effective June 1, 2012, to freeze CIRI's existing share fractions by prohibiting single shares from being split and share fractions from being further divided. To effectuate the policy, procedures were implemented to ensure that, in settling CIRI stock estates, existing share fractions (i.e. less than one share) are distributed to only one recipient and any additional stock is distributed in whole shares only.

Beginning in 2013, to be eligible for the monthly $200 prize drawings, a shareholder must have a valid will on file that complies with CIRI's fractional share policy.

Is your stock will current?

Please consider whether your will requires updating in light of the fractional share policy. CIRI urges shareholders to update their wills after giving or receiving a gift of stock, upon the death of a designated beneficiary or if additional shares are inherited. Marriage, divorce, the birth or adoption of children and other life changes are also reasons to complete a new will.

Need more info?

The CIRI stock will form, instructions and additional information on share fractions are located on the CIRI website at www.ciri.com. Contact CIRI's probate staff at (907) 263-5191 or toll-free at (800) 764-2474 and select option 4 with any questions.
