“Regal Cinemas and Target are two of nearly 50 dining, entertainment and retail destinations at the 900,000-square-foot Tikahtnu Commons. Photo by Judy Patrick.

An 85-acre shopping center with nearly 50 dining, entertainment and retail options, Tikahtnu Commons serves the growing needs of Anchorage, Eagle River and the Mat-Su Valley.

Since opening in 2007, Tikahtnu Commons has become Anchorage’s largest retail and entertainment center, representing one of CIRI’s most successful investments. It is anchored by Best Buy, Kohl’s, Lowe’s, Regal Cinemas, Sam’s Club and Target.

Just in time for the holidays, a new website has been unveiled. TikahtnuCommons.com boasts a store directory with individual store hours, an interactive map and a link to information on the recently completed Glenn Highway-Muldoon Interchange, including an instructional video showing how to drive, walk or bike through the interchange.

The new interchange allows for higher vehicle capacity, reduces travel delays and provides safer, more efficient pedestrian access across the highway. It provides easy access from all directions to Tikahtnu Commons.

Season’s greetings! As we celebrate the holidays, may you experience the warmth of family, the joy of friends and the promise of the year ahead.

As we reflect upon 2017, I am reminded of CIRI’s many successes. Of course, these successes would not be possible without our talented team of employees, the wisdom and guidance of our Board of Directors and the support of our shareholders.

Below are just a few of this year’s highlights:

North Wind
In January, CIRI subsidiary North Wind Group announced the acquisition of Portage Inc. and all of its subsidiaries. Already successful, the acquisition made North Wind one of the most robust and capable small businesses in the federal market. The recently-combined companies operate in 35 states and three countries and employ more than 1,100 individuals.

Fireweed Business Center
CIRI’s corporate headquarters in Anchorage achieved Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) Gold certification. It also welcomed new tenants Unialik Insurance Company and Sonosky, Chambers, Sachse, Endreson and Perry, LLP, a law firm. With the addition of its new tenants, the Fireweed Business Center stands at 75 percent occupied. Meanwhile, CIRI’s former headquarters at 2525 C Street continues to be a premier midtown Anchorage property and remains a strong asset in CIRI’s real estate portfolio.

Fire Island Wind
September marked the five-year anniversary of the Fire Island Wind Project, which delivers clean, renewable energy to Anchorage homes and beyond. The project has been recognized by General Electric Company as one of the top four wind energy projects in the country.

Granite
The Granite software developed by CIRI to manage its shareholder records was updated to allow it to be adopted by not just other Alaska Native regional corporations, but by village corporations as well. A simplified, cloud-based version of Granite was made available for purchase by Alaska Native village corporations in late 2016. To date, two Alaska Native regional corporations and eight village corporations have purchased the software, including Ninilchik Natives Association Inc. and Sedlová Native Association Inc., two of the ANCSA-certified villages in the Cook Inlet region.

Makah’ena Estates
The Makahu’ena Estates project team completed major construction and is now working with the County of Kaua‘i to obtain subdivision approval. In September, I joined several local honored guests and neighbors, along with CIRI Real Estate Vice President Chad Nugent, for a traditional Hawaiian dedication and blessing.

Alaska Native Hire
The revamped AlaskaNativeHire.com, an online employment solution, was rolled out in October. The easy-to-use website connects CIRI shareholders and descendants and other Alaska Native people with the companies looking to hire them.

Other highlights included:
• Major contract wins for CIRI subsidiaries Silver Mountain Construction and Weldin Construction;
• Celebrating the 35th anniversary of The CIRI Foundation;
• The CIRI Golf Classic raising $151,000 for youth and education organizations;
• Placing five young shareholders and descendants in temporary positions through the CIRI Summer Internship Program; and
• Hosting U.S. Secretary of the Interior Ryan Zinke and the Alaska congressional delegation.

It has, indeed, been an exciting year for CIRI. As we prepare for the new year to unfold, we look forward to many new and exciting developments, as well as more opportunities to get together and share in our Alaska Native heritage. I wish each of you a happy and healthy holiday season.

Warm regards,

Sophie Minich, CIRI President and Chief Executive Officer
and warm up while our mom worked,” Ken said. “We would wait outside an unheated woodshed and Ken’s mother found unbroken jars of seal oil, “the challenge of survival in McGrath. Not badly hurt, dressed in fur garments was near normal for everybody then,” Ken said. The family dog team served as transportation. “Looking back, what seems a rough existence now was near normal for everybody then.” Ken said. The repurposed, rusty 55-gallon drum that served as the cabin’s heat source “was so common that a store-bought stove would have been a curiosity, just as a metal coat hook instead of reindeer antlers would have been.”

When the Japanese invaded the Aleutian Islands during World War II, many civilians were evacuated from Nome. In the case of 3-year-old Ken, his 5-year-old brother and their mother, they boarded a mail plane bound for Anchorage. (Ken’s father stayed behind as a member of the Alaska Territorial Guard.)

En route to Anchorage, the single-engine plane flew into a snowstorm and crashed miles from an outpost in McGrath. Not badly hurt, dressed in fur garments and traveling with a gummy sack of dried fish and two unbroken jars of seal oil, “the challenge of survival became not much different than what we faced in day-to-day life outside Nome,” Ken said. After the storm settled, an Alaska Native rescue party arrived from McGrath via dog team. The family stayed in McGrath until the weather cleared.

Upon arriving in Anchorage, the family moved into an unheated woodshed and Ken’s mother found work as a housecleaner. “We would wait outside until the family left in the morning, then come inside and warm up while our mom worked,” Ken said.

“Attending school during that time was a novel experience in itself,” Ken recalled. “Anchorage was really a white man’s town, Alaska Natives weren’t really integrated into the social and economic infrastructure. Teachers weren’t sympathetic to us. It was just a fact of life then.”

Ken and his family relocated in the early 1950s to a multi-ethnic neighborhood in Seattle. “We were the only Alaska Native people, but there were a lot of African-American, Asian and poor white people. I kind of fit in – being different wasn’t different there,” he recalled.

Ken put himself through college by working the night shift at the local post office, eventually receiving a bachelor’s degree with honors in economics from the University of Washington. He subsequently earned two master’s degrees. Prior to the passing of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (ANCSA) in 1971, Ken traveled to Washington, D.C. to lobby for the settlement. He co-founded the Alaska Native Association of Oregon and, as executive director, conducted “Operation Manhunt,” a nationwide media campaign publicizing and assisting the ANCSA enrollment process.

Though he left Alaska 65 years ago and currently resides in Seattle, Ore., “I still feel connected,” Ken said. “I’m multiracial, but I call myself Alaska Native; that’s never faded into the background. I had a consultancy business, and I did a lot of work in Alaska, sometimes making half a dozen trips a year. I take pride in having had a hand in improving practically every commercial harbor in Alaska, especially in Nome. It’s been years since I’ve been up there (to Alaska), but we’ll see – I might make another trip.”

In her professional life, CIRI shareholder and employee Raymie Hamann abides by the adage: “an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.” As CIRI’s Corporate Compliance manager, Raymie works hard to monitor and report on current trends and developments in the compliance industry and to identify emerging new risks and evolving industry practices.

The Raven’s Circle sat down with Raymie to talk about what she does to help CIRI fulfill its mission.

RC: Tell us what a compliance manager does and why a compliance program is so important?

Raymie: One of CIRI’s greatest assets is its reputation. We are respected by business partners, the communities in which we operate and the public at large. Our reputation is built on a commitment to excellence by our whole team. A robust compliance program ensures the entire CIRI team – from the CEO on down – understands the ethical principles that guide our business behavior.

RC: What are some examples of the business behaviors that CIRI strives for?

Raymie: It starts with a strong set of corporate values, and for CIRI these are Mission Driven, Excellence, Honor, Respect and Unity. These values dictate our behavior. Everyone working at CIRI knows they don’t just represent themselves; they represent their department, the company and, most importantly, CIRI shareholders. CIRI’s corporate values, together with its Code of Ethics, ensures company business is conducted with integrity and fairness.

RC: It seems we are reading a lot in the news these days about what happens when ethical behavior is not practiced…

Raymie: That’s right. And those who act inappropriately not only lose their jobs and damage their reputations, but their actions – whether it’s a harassment issue or conflict of interest – can be incredibly disruptive for a corporation and potentially damaging to its reputation as well. CIRI takes a zero-tolerance approach to both unlawful discrimination and harassment. Our employees know it and appreciate it. Every year, the staff participates in training to help ensure ethical dilemmas are avoided.

RC: Do you ever feel like the CIRI law enforcement officer, ready to lower the boom on an offender?

Raymie: It’s not like that at all. We take a more proactive approach. When an incident arises, it is usually a training opportunity in disguise. CIRI hires good people and we give them the tools and information that enable them to thrive. Beginning with our corporate values, the CIRI culture cultivates honesty and integrity, and the team embraces that. My job is to continue to foster the dialogue and training to ensure CIRI always promotes the best business practices in our behaviors and interactions.

2018 BOARD ELECTION

Seeking applicants for Board slate

The CIRI Nominating Committee seeks CIRI shareholders interested in nomination to the 2018 CIRI Board of Directors’ candidate slate. To be considered, all Board slate applicants, including incumbents, must complete and return a candidate nominee application to CIRI by 3 p.m. Alaska Standard Time on Monday, Jan. 15. Additional information can be found on CIRI’s website or by contacting the Shareholder Relations department.

The Nominating Committee will review all timely applications, conduct selected interviews and recommend candidates to CIRI’s Board of Directors. Based on the Nominating Committee’s recommendations and the Board’s subsequent evaluation, the CIRI Board will name five candidates to the Board-recommended slate.

Board write-in candidates

As in the past, all shareholders interested in running for the CIRI Board of Directors as write-in candidates, including those individuals not selected for the Board-recommended slate, will have an opportunity to submit their information for inclusion in CIRI’s election materials.

Write-in candidate information packets will be available from CIRI Shareholder Relations and posted on CIRI’s website no later than Wednesday, Jan. 31. Completed write-in candidate information packets must be received by CIRI by noon Alaska Standard Time on Feb. 20.

In accordance with CIRI’s By-Laws and election policies and procedures, the names, photographs and accurate and appropriate personal statements of all eligible write-in candidates will appear in CIRI’s election materials. There is no change to a write-in candidate to have this information included. This process enables any eligible CIRI shareholder to run for election to the CIRI Board of Directors with minimal effort and expense and reduces the number of mailings and materials shareholders receive.

Director responsibilities and experience

CIRI Directors are responsible for initiating and developing the policies that further the goals of the company, while addressing the economic, social and cultural needs of the shareholders. All applicants should be well-rounded and possess a strong understanding of business. In selecting a Board-recommended slate, the CIRI Board looks for demonstrated decision-making, leadership and communication skills, as well as honesty and integrity.

Knowledge of business operations, involvement with Alaska Native issues and a college degree or equivalent business experience are also desired.

Director eligibility

Pursuant to CIRI’s By-Laws, no person shall be qualified to serve as a CIRI Director who:

(1) is not at least 18 years of age;
(2) is not a voting CIRI shareholder;
(3) has been convicted, as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, of a felony within five years before election;
(4) has been found, as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, to have engaged in fraud or illegal business practices; or
(5) has been found, as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction, to have breached a confidentiality agreement with the corporation.

Reminder

Alaska law defines proxy solicitations as a request to execute or not to execute, or to revoke a proxy; or the distributing of a proxy or other communication to shareholders under circumstances reasonably calculated to enable the shareholder to vote at the meeting.

For the fourth year, CIRI invites young shareholders and descendants to explore future career paths by spending a day at CIRI on Martin Luther King Jr. Day, an Anchorage School District holiday. (Take the Next Generation to Work Day is annually scheduled to fall on Martin Luther King Jr. Day to eliminate the need for participating youth to miss any school.) The 2018 event will take place on Monday, Jan. 15, and will provide youth an opportunity to learn about the company and experience what’s involved in and required for jobs they may be interested in. Participants will hear from CIRI executives and spend time with an employee sponsor to learn about areas of the company that align with their interests.

Monday, Jan. 15, 2018
Deadline to apply: Friday, Jan. 5, 2018

To be eligible to participate, youth must have parental or legal guardian permission, be between 10 years old through high-school age, and be a CIRI shareholder or confirmed descendant. The parent or guardian must arrange for the minor’s transportation to and from CIRI’s corporate office in Anchorage.

Interested young people must complete an application. Applications are available at www.ciri.com/nextgen and from CIRI’s Shareholder Relations department. Completed forms must be received by CIRI Human Resources no later than 3 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 5. Email hr@Ciri.com or call 907-263-5562 with questions about the program or application process. Visit www.ciri.com/descendant to learn how to register as a descendant.

YOUTH EDUCATIONAL INCENTIVES

SUBMIT REPORT CARDS BY WEDNESDAY, JAN. 31, 2018

CIRI encourages youth to attend and excel at school by conducting $100 cash prize drawings for students who maintain a grade point average (GPA) of 3.5 or above and students with perfect attendance. (Perfect attendance is defined as missing no more than four classes in the reporting period.) CIRI shareholders and confirmed CIRI descendants enrolled in grades 7 through 12 are eligible to participate.

Drawings are conducted twice a year — in February, and again in July, nine winners in each category are randomly selected to receive $100 cash cards, including three youth who reside in Anchorage, three youth who reside in Alaska outside of Anchorage, and three youth who reside outside of Alaska. Youth may not win more than one award per semester.

To enter, eligible youth must submit a copy of the report card for the immediately preceding semester to CIRI Shareholder Relations by Jan. 31 or June 30, as applicable. The report card must clearly show the minor’s name, the time period being reported on, the minor’s grades and attendance record, and the name and contact information of the minor’s school. CIRI will attempt to contact the winner using the contact information in its files. If the winner cannot be contacted within 10 days of attempts, the prize will be awarded to an alternative winner, selected in accordance with contest rules.

Learn more about the drawings at www.ciri.com/shareholders/descendants/youth-programs/youth-educational-incentives. Visit www.ciri.com/descendant to learn how to register as a descendant.

5. Slowly pour the caramel sauce over the popcorn while stirring the popcorn. (It helps if you have a partner for this step — one person pouring while the other stirs the popcorn.) Continue stirring the sauce into the popcorn until all kernels are coated.

6. Divide the popcorn between two baking sheets, spreading into an even layer. Bake for 1 hour, stirring every 15 minutes and breaking up any clumps.

7. Let the popcorn cool completely on the baking sheets. Serve immediately or store in an airtight container.

2018 SHAREHOLDER DISTRIBUTIONS

Dividend Payments
CIRI’s dividend policy states that the total CIRI dividend payment to shareholders in any given year is equal to 3.5 percent of total shareholders’ equity, calculated as of Dec. 31 of the prior year. The CIRI Board has approved the distribution dates shown in the table below for 2018. Dividend amounts will be calculated shortly before the date of record for the 2018 first quarter dividend distribution, which generally falls within the last two weeks of March.

As the first step in the process, the company’s 2017 accounting books must be “closed” (i.e., all 2017 expenses and income must be received and either paid or properly accounted for). Next, the finance and accounting department prepares CIRI’s 2017 financial statements, after which an independent accounting firm retains by CIRI reviews its financial statements and confirms their accuracy. This process will determine CIRI’s total shareholder equity upon which the 2018 dividends will be based.

When the Board declares a dividend, shareholders are notified via the newsletter, CIRI’s website and the dividend hotline, which can be accessed by dialing (907) 263-5100 in Anchorage or toll-free outside of Anchorage by dialing (800) 764-2435 (CHEK).

Once calculated, a table containing the dates and amounts for each type of payment CIRI expects to issue to shareholders in 2018 will be posted on CIRI’s website. Information on CIRI’s dividend policy may also be found online at www.ciri.com.

Elders’ Payments
The trustees of the CIRI Elders’ Settlement Trust have approved the 2018 distribution schedule for Elders’ payments. As reflected in the table below, the payments will once again occur in the same months as CIRI’s quarterly distributions in order to reduce the number of months that some Elders lose their Social Security income payments because their monthly income exceeds limitations set by the Social Security Administration.

The trust mandates quarterly payments of $450 per eligible Elder for as long as the trust has assets available to make the distributions. Original shareholders who are 65 years of age or older and who own at least one share of CIRI stock as of these dates are eligible to receive payments. CIRI shareholders who are turning 65 and want to receive the payments do not need to do anything other than to keep a current mailing address with CIRI’s Shareholder Relations department.

CIRI shareholders voted in June 2003 to establish the Irrevocable Elders’ Settlement Trust. In accordance with the vote, CIRI initially funded the Trust with a $16 million contribution. At the time, it was anticipated that Elders would receive quarterly distributions of $450 until 2023. This projection was based upon assumptions regarding the performance of Trust investments over time and the number of beneficiaries. However, due to lower than predicted market returns as a result of the 2008 global economic downturn and the fact that shareholders are (thankfully) living longer than anticipated, the Trust could run out of money as early as the fall of 2019. The Trustees are working with CIRI to explore potential options for additional funding to extend the life of the Trust. Any news regarding the future of the Elders’ Settlement Trust will be shared in the Raven’s Circle and by other means.

2017 CIRI SHAREHOLDER TAX INFORMATION

After Dec. 31, CIRI’s accounting and finance department will be able to determine the proper treatment of the various types of distributions CIRI made to shareholders in 2017 with respect to IRS Form reporting requirements. As soon as the proper treatment is determined, the dividend hotline and CIRI website will be updated. An article about how CIRI distributions will be reported to the IRS will also appear in a future issue of Raven’s Circle.

CIRI’s IRS Forms 1099 will be mailed to shareholders no later than Wednesday, Jan. 31, 2018, as required by law. However, shareholders with Qenek portal accounts will also be able to access their tax information and print their IRS Forms 1099 online, prior to receiving their forms in the mail. The tax information will be available via Qenek as soon as the forms have been processed, or no later than Tuesday, Jan. 30.

To create a Qenek account or access your existing account, visit https://Qenek.ciri.com.

The following CIRI shareholders do not have a current mailing address on record. When CIRI mail is returned as undeliverable, the distributions are held and the shareholder does not qualify to participate in any prize drawings until the address is updated. Shareholders with Qenek portal accounts may update their addresses online. Alternatively, shareholders may visit CIRI’s website at Shareholder Relations at (907) 263-5191 or (800) 764-2474 for address change forms and information.
